

SONJA SWART

"I want to leave the world a better place by helping individuals, teams and organisations fulfil their true potential."

Experience & Skills

Sonja has been an independent change consultant in the areas of change management and leadership since 2001, where she has consulted extensively with executive, senior, middle, and first-line managers. As a change consultant, she has successfully managed change and organisational development projects in the private and public sectors, ranging from business turnaround projects to business re-engineering, culture change and quality improvement projects.

She is a visiting faculty member at the University of Stellenbosch Business School (Executive Development), Gordon Institute of Business (GIBS), Eaton Business School (Leicester) and Exceed College (Westford Education Group). She has conducted extensive research in women's leadership and completed her PhD focusing on African women's leadership. In 2020, Sonja co-authored the book, 'Change Leadership in Emerging Markets.'

Qualifications

- PhD in Personal and Professional Leadership
- B.Sc. (Mathematics and Statistics)
- Certificate in NeuroLeadership