

GOODNEWS CADOGAN

"I want to make a difference that contributes to the development of Africa as a continent, and an inclusive and prosperous South Africa."

Experience & Skills

Goodnews has had the opportunity to work closely with a number of South African organisations during his career, such as Volkswagen South Africa, Goodyear, Nampak, National Brands, Vodacom, ABSA and SARS. Working within these industries has provided him with the opportunity to practice diagnostic prowess, gain systems management experience and enhance his organisational design and development capabilities.

Goodnews' experience has helped him develop strong skills for general human capital management. Over the years, he has also gained experience working with macroeconomic leadership in working with the complexity of policy development and enforcement, as well as public policy and tax administration. He has mastered strategic navigation, strategic foresight, advocacy, deep design and networked intelligence. All of which has helped develop skills that service him as a well-established management consultant and executive coach today.
